Hurricane Who?

Tropical cyclones are called typhoons in Asia and hurricanes in North and South America. These storms go around like a wheel turning to the left when they hit in the northern part of the world. They have wind speeds of 60 kph or more. In the United States, the Tropical Prediction Center in Miami, Florida keeps an eye out for hurricanes.

When meteorologists detect a hurricane, they give it a name. They can use either a male or female name. Why should tropical cyclones have names? The name makes it easier for people to keep up with information about a hurricane and its possible dangers.

The World Meteorological Organization (WMO), an international weather group, decides what names will be used. The WMO makes lists of names using the English alphabet. Each name on the list starts with a different letter. The first hurricane of the year gets the first name on that year's list. The second hurricane gets the next name. For example, if the first hurricane is named Abel, the second might be named Betty. The name lists do not include names beginning with the letters Q, U, X, Y, and Z. There aren't many names that begin with these letters.

Asian countries use a different list, which is made up by the WMO's Typhoon Committee. This list has a few personal names, but most of the names are of flowers, animals, trees, and other similar things.

A- Choose the best answer:

1. What is the main idea of this reading?
a. Why tropical cyclones are named      b. What tropical cyclones can do
c. How tropical cyclones are named      d. Who watches for tropical cyclones
2. In which direction do tropical cyclones go around in the northern part of the planet?
a. Down      b. The same direction as a clock
c. The opposite direction of a clock      d. Up
3. The fifth hurricane of 2015 might have the name _____.
a. Diana      b. Darren      c. Eric      d. Connie 4. Which name would a hurricane NOT have?
a. Rita      b. Veronica      c. William      d. Yanni
5. Why should tropical cyclones have names?
a. It sounds interesting.      b. The names help people.
c. The names are a code for the WMO.      d. It is traditional.

B) Answer the following questions:

- 6- What is the antonym of the word 'different' in the last paragraph?
7. What does the underlined pronoun 'They' in the first paragraph refer to?
8. How do typhoons in Asia differ in their names from those in America?

Educational reform for Egypt 2030

Central to Egypt's 2030 vision are four pillars: social justice, innovation and scientific research, economic development, and environment. In all four pillars, the focus is on a future where there is more citizen participation to face new challenges and meet Egypt's national objectives. There is thus a strong emphasis on "public-private partnership to stimulate innovation".

Education will play the central role in the success of Egypt's 2030 vision. In the present technological revolution — a revolution that will transform health, industry, education, job opportunities and the overall framework of society — retraining is central.

This raises the question: Where do we start and how can we develop this idea of preparing the Egyptian youth for the 21st century? The answer starts with the educational system and teachers more specifically. To this end, the Ministry of Education at the moment has an interesting programme for teacher training called "Teachers First". Its general direction focuses on shifting teaching from top-down traditional methods to student learning, interaction and development of skills. "This programme," says one teacher, "urges me to begin planning and reflecting on topics that will help my learners, ones that can be associated with the curriculum. This will help us build characters that are able to head straight into the job market and immediately succeed socially."

Sudan crisis: Protest leaders demand end of 'deep state'

Organisers of mass protests in Sudan have told the BBC they want the full dismantling of the "deep state" left behind by ousted leader Omar al-Bashir. A spokesman said leaders of the past regime should be put on trial. Mr Bashir was toppled by the army last week after 30 years in power and a military council has pledged elections in two-years time.

How to be a housewife

In the past, many people might judge a sitt al-bayt al-shatra (Egyptian Arabic for a "good housewife") by how well she could cook, clean the house and have well-behaved children. However, nowadays this has changed with the changing social and financial status of the family.

There are no more housewives like Amina in Nobel laureate Naguib Mahfouz's novel Bayn Al-Qasrein (Palace Walk). The novel portrays a housewife who is obedient to her husband, does all the housework, and never steps outside the house without his permission. Such Amina figures are now very rare, since many or even most wives now work like their husbands to make ends meet, while taking care of the children and the household at the same time.
